

Rebecca “Becky” A. Bazzle, BS, CVR-M

Freelance Court Reporter (1975-1978)

Official Court Reporter, SC Judicial System (1978-2001)

Owner/Operator of Bazzle & Associates Court Reporting (2001-2023)

I actively worked as a court reporter for 23 years as an official court reporter for the state of South Carolina. In 2001 opened a freelance court reporting firm in upstate South Carolina. During most of this time, I scoped and edited my transcripts and sought help from proofreaders. Technology changed drastically during these 48 years, and I continued to learn and grow in my profession to stay relevant. This includes CAT system and other tools used to produce the record, as well as building and maintaining a support system with fellow professionals to help me succeed.

I am a graduate of Furman University, hold a state court reporting certification issued by the SC Supreme Court and the CVR-M from NVRA.

During my career, I have been very actively involved in my state associations and the National Verbatim Reporters Association. I served in many capacities over the years in the two SC state associations (South Carolina State Court Reporters Association and South Carolina Court Reporters Association) – committee chair, board member, president. I have also served on committees and in board positions, including the position of president, with NVRA for many years.

My passion is to encourage fellow court reporters to strive for excellence."
